

General Terms and Conditions for RBA Packages

(implemented as of 30/06/2023)

I. DEFINITION

RBA packages are service packages offering the Holder of Current Account with the Bank advantages in using particular banking services, the possibility to use additional non-banking services, and Premium packages offer also the usage of premium services, depending on the type of the arranged Premium package.

In the text of these General Terms and Conditions, where the provisions thereof apply to all packages, the joint term Package will be used hereinafter.

II. CONTRACTING THE RBA PACKAGE

The Package can be agreed by the adult Holder of the current account with the Bank (hereinafter: the Client), pursuant to a filled in and signed Package Application Form (hereinafter: the Application Form), or through other channels that the Bank can use to contract services (e.g. through distance communications).

The exemptions to this are the RBA Young&Free and RBA Start&Go Packages which are contracted by an online application including mandatory video identification for clients who do not hold a current account with the Bank or RBA mobile banking, who are citizens of the Republic of Croatia and have a permanent residence in the Republic of Croatia.

As opposed to the RBA Young&Free Package, which is contracted exclusively through the online application, the RBA Start&Go Package can be contracted also by a filled and signed Application form, or through other channels that the Bank uses to contract contract services.

The same person can use only one type of Package with the Bank. The Package is arranged for an indefinite period. The exception is the RBA Young&Free Package, which can be contracted for the period until the Client reaches 27 years of age.

For any banking service which is included in an offer of a particular Package, the Bank and the Client shall make a separate agreement.

In order to arrange a non-banking service which is contained in a particular Package, the Client must provide his/her consent by signing the appropriate Statement of consent on the Application Form, or in any other acceptable manner, if arranging the agreement through other channels or by accepting amended and changed General Terms and Conditions for RBA Packages (hereinafter: General Terms and Conditions), if such changes affect the content of the arranged Package in comparison to non-banking services.

The Client gains the right to use the ORYX Assistance benefits in the scope as offered within a corresponding Package when the Bank delivers to ORYX the request for ORYX Assistance membership activation. By accepting these General Terms and Conditions, the Client User of a Package containing such a non-banking service of ORYX Assistance Help at Home and/or Road Help shall accept the General Terms and Conditions for ORYX Assistance benefits, as handed in to them by the Bank, and shall give their consent to the Bank to deliver to ORYX the mentioned request, as well as to forward to ORYX Grupa d.o.o. their personal information, to the extent in which that is necessary to the effect of realizing the rights and benefits arising in connection to them from their respective ORYX Assistance membership.

The Client gains the right to use premium services by arranging the corresponding Premium Package.

The Bank can decide not to arrange a Package for a Client, without any obligation whatsoever to provide an explanation for any such decision.

III. FEES

The Client shall pay a monthly fee for Package usage in keeping with the Transaction Fees for Private Individuals, which are a constituent part of the Frame Agreement made between the Client and the Bank.

The fee amount will depend on the type of the agreed Package, and it has been defined under the Decision on Service Fees of the Bank. The fee calculation method is regulated under the Rules on Calculation of Interests and Fees of the Bank.

Any banking service included in the offer of a particular Package can be arranged independently as well and is subject to fees in keeping with the Transaction Fees for Private Individuals.

A Client using the Package shall not pay particular individual fees for services contained in a particular Package or such services will be provided at a more favourable rate for them respectively. Release from account fees, or their reduction, is stated in every Package, for every individual service that is not charged/is charged less.

The Client authorizes the Bank to charge, without seeking any further consent of the Client, the monthly fee for the use of the Package against the assets held in the Client's current account, whereof the Bank shall inform the Client in an account statement.

The Client who has arranged a Premium Package and who, on the last day of the accounting period uses 4 or more product groups, gains the right to a discounted monthly fee for the usage of a Premium Package.

The product groups used by the Client at the Bank or national Raiffeisen group members, and on the basis of which the right to a discount is gained, are as follows:
